

TOKYO 2020

British Olympians

...leading, our country, inspiring us to be our best and making a difference.

As with so many events in 2020, Covid-19 caused the postponement of the Tokyo Olympics.

Never had the Olympic Games been postponed or cancelled for something other than war, but rarely has the world come to a grinding halt the way it has over the coronavirus.

What felt like the last major sporting event untouched by the current strain of the virus the 2020 Olympics served as a glimmer of hope for the entire globe, but sadly, the Japan Prime Minister Shinzo Abe and International Olympic Committee agreed to postpone the Tokyo 2020 Olympics until the summer of 2021.

Now the event has finally taken place, we as a nation can bask in the glory of the phenomenal success of the British athletes who have taken part. The medals, the World records, the Olympic records, the firsts are all due to hard work, team culture and persistence. These are values can be translated to any event or situation in any person's life.

Here we celebrate our decorated female Olympians.
