

Kendrick School - Weekly Update

Friday 9th December 2022

LETTER FROM MS KATTIRTZI, HEADTEACHER

It seems that music@kendrick gets better and better! Last night our Winter Concert surpassed all expectations with stellar performances from four of our Year 13 students which matched anything that could be seen or heard in a concert hall in London. Asia, Arya, Jasmine and Shayna performed pieces of such beauty and emotion that members of the audience were moved to tears. These performances have been recorded and we hope to be able to send them to you in next week's Weekly Update plus photos of the event. Other items in the concert were also very good, including the Year 7 Choir who delighted us all with their rendition of a lovely Christmas carol called Carol of Bells.

Other news this week can be found in the links below:

- Kendrick Celebrating 145 years. A most colourful event run by KPS with over 300 parents and children attending a super evening of culture and performances. I believe nearly £2000 was raised. Thank you and well done to everyone involved.
- Reunion of former staff and students: this event brought together some students who had attended Kendrick in the 1950s and in later decades including recently. It was wonderful to see these former students and colleagues and to hear their memories and recollections of their time at Kendrick. Many were impressed by the number of new buildings that have appeared since their time at the school, in particular, our standout statement building, Horizons.
- This article reflects our ongoing commitment to supporting actions to improve the environment through Global Schools Action Day. Today the Eco Committee will be leading another session of Just Dance during the lunch break in the Hall to raise awareness.

We have one week to go before we break up for the Christmas holiday. Understandably students and staff are feeling very tired and need a break. In addition, I know that some families are feeling anxious about the rise in cases of scarlet fever and strep A. There is some information in the Weekly Update that parents should read which gives guidance about what people need to do if they suspect their child is not well. Please read the information beyond my update as there is always such useful information for everyone to read.

To end this week's update, I am delighted to present to you Kendrick's Christmas card for 2022. Designed by Art students in Year 12, it celebrates the festive season and marks Kendrick's 145 years as a school. Thank you to Cassie and Betty for the super design and to the student singers, also 6th Formers, whose voices provide the musical accompaniment to the card.

Have a great weekend.

Ms Christine Kattirtzi, Headteacher

SAFEGUARDING

ARRIVAL AT SCHOOL IN THE MORNING

Kendrick School opens at 7.30am and students can come in at that time and wait in the canteen until their form rooms are opened. For safeguarding reasons, students should not be dropped off, or arrive earlier than this as they will need to wait outside the school unsupervised until the gates are opened by our Receptionist.

SAFEGUARDING ASSEMBLY TO STUDENTS

All our students have now received a safeguarding assembly which you can access via this link. Titled 'Keeping You Safe', it explains what safeguarding is, how it relates to students, who keeps them safe at school and who they should contact if they have any concerns or worries.

MENTAL HEALTH AND WELLBEING – KINDNESS MATTERS

Source: Mentalhealth.org.uk

We're all familiar with the saying "it's better to give than receive". What might surprise you is that this is actually backed up by research.

Those of us who are kind and compassionate experience clear benefits to our well-being and happiness. We may even live longer. Kindness also helps reduce stress and improve our emotional well-being.

We all have so much going on in our lives - competing strains and stresses – not to mention the recent coronavirus pandemic and lockdowns. This has sometimes pushed kindness to one side, in favour of what is urgent now.

It can be easy to show kindness when posting online, but when it comes to reality it's harder to commit to kindness in our real-life words and actions.

By taking the time to be kind to others, we can benefit from emotional upsides. It really does make a difference, especially for people who are vulnerable or struggling.

With everything that's going on in the world, now is the time to help make a kinder society that improves our mental health.

Kindness should be built into business decisions, government policy, and other official systems in a way that supports everyone's mental health and also reduces discrimination and inequality. That can start with individual commitments to showing kindness in our words and our actions.

This guide from the Mental Health Foundation is written to demonstrate the positive effect that helping others can have on your own mental health, including some suggestions that will inspire you.

Take a few minutes, have a read, and think about doing something kind for a friend or a stranger today.

Our Library has a wonderful advent calendar with an 'Act of Kindness' for each day which students are being asked to carry out on the lead up to Christmas.

- 4th December: Send a Christmas card to the children's ward at the hospital
- 5th December: Offer your seat to a person in need on the bus/train
- 6th December: Bring a little treat in for someone at school
- 7th December: Leave a positive message in someone's bag for them to find later
- 8th December: Hold the door open for someone
- 9th December: Offer to help a friend with their work
- 10th December: Pick up litter you see on the floor
